The Other Side

By Scott Hope

"Say, Scotty,

"I've only been back at State about five weeks and it's sure great to be back. Somehow, however, there seem to be a few changes. I remember when State used to have things going on about the campus — surely, you too, remember when the faculty debated with the students and the Chicken's Ball were things Staters looked forward to with great anticipation. And, how about the AMS meetings, with their entertainment and refreshments every two weeks.

"There are other things I miss, also, Scotty, and here are a few of them:

1—I miss the class bulletin boards, with their announcements of activities.

2—I miss the noon and evening rallies (we used to have them).

3—I miss the State band strutting.

4—I miss the Friday night dances (free with SB cards).

5—I miss the active presence of the Block 'S.'

6—I miss the atmosphere that exists when each class and organization tries to surpass the other in all activities.

"Everything is not different, however. I've heard many compliments on the way the Co-op is handled, and our counseling system has received much praise from the new and old students alike.

"Lastly, it's sure good to see the old faces and hear familiar names again. And the fellows are cracking good grades, too, aren't they?

"That about does it—so with "Hail to San Francisco State," many thanks, Scotty.

Signed: Izzie Pivnik.

There is little I can add to your letter, Izzie. It says almost everything relative to our social life that I have been yelling about all year. I would, however, like to call your points to the attention of those concerned.

1—To Jean Spaulding, Dick MacClure, Lou Rubin, and Ed Osorio: You have all assured me, personally, that you thought class bulletin boards are a good idea. Let's get 'em.

2—Noon and evening rallies have been fouled up primarily because there have been too many changes in the Activities Council. The leading candidate for the position of Activities Commissioner has assured me that there will be many rallies of all descriptions in the event that the above mentioned is elected to fulfill the va-

Large Banquet Is Planned; Florence Quartararo to Sing

To celebrate the passage of the $3,436,000 appropriations bill for a new San Francisco State College at Lake Merced, students, alumni, and faculty will hold a banquet at the St. Francis Hotel on May 6.

Many notables in state political and educational circles have been invited to be honored guests at the dinner. Miss Florence Quartararo, State graduate who made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company this season, has accepted an invitation to sing. In token of her achievements, she will be awarded an honorary bachelor of music degree by the college, to be conferred upon her by President Leonard.

Approximately 400 persons are expected to attend the affair. Students and alumni are particularly invited to share in the festivities in celebration of the end of a long and victorious struggle to acquire a campus worthy of the institution.

Arrangements for the dinner are being supervised by the faculty public relations committee, Dr. George Gibson, chairman. Other committee members are Dr. Sherman Brown, alumni; Mrs. Ruth Witt-Diamant, arrangements; Dr. Edward Cassady, publicity; Mr. Harold Harden, tickets, and Dr. E. T. Arnesen and Dr. Somerville Thomson, program. Tickets will go on sale next week.

"Man and Masses" Opens Monday Night; Full House Is Expected

Shown above rehearsing their lines for the initial performance of the term play 'Man and the Masses' this Monday eve are: Glenn Jackson; Margo Davidson, Allan Hummel, Marge Shearer, Gene Adams, and Charles Autry.

Social Drama Set To Run 3 Nights

By Corrine Webb

Ernst Toller's "Man and the Masses," this semester's term play, will be presented next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings by the College Theater, under the direction of Miss Carolyn Silverthorne. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

UNUSUAL TREATMENT

The story deals with an individual's fight for peace against the masses wanting war. It is unusual in that it is presented in pictures—instead of acts. Some pictures represent dreams, some reality. The bankers scene promises to be the most outstanding feature of the play, according to Miss Silverthorne.

"The Woman," played by Margaret Shearer, fights to uphold her ideals of love and brotherhood, and in doing so sways the masses toward her beliefs. The entrance of "The Nameless One," the revolutionary element as played by James Haran, who has set himself up to lead the masses, changes the picture.

"The Nameless One" claims that a war against the rich will end the slavery of the masses. The masses join him in his cry of "take up the arms." "The Woman" hesitates, then agrees, thus, becoming the leader of the masses in a war against her own people—the rich.

WRONG DECISION

As soon as the war begins she realizes that she made the wrong decision. Women and children are murdered in the streets. Shadows fill her whole existence. She is accused of mass murder on the assumption that if she had not forsaken her beliefs the war might have been avoided. She is guilty, and so must pay the penalty—death. Until the final scene when she is taken away to be shot, she holds fast to her belief that there is good in every one.

PLAYERS BACKGROUDS

Miss Shearer starred in two previous term plays, "Ladies in Retirement" and "The Women." She plans to go into radio work after graduating.

Allan Hummel, "The Woman's" husband, has appeared in three

State Board of Education Authorizes College to Grant Gen'l Secondary Credential

San Francisco State College has been authorized to grant the General Secondary Credential and will immediately set up curricula in nine fields of study for training high school teachers, according to a statement by President J. Paul Leonard.

Authorization for the new credential, which is expected to mark a new era for the college, came from the State Board of Education, meeting in Los Angeles last Friday with the presidents of the six state colleges. Fresno, San Diego, and Chico state colleges were likewise approved by the Board, but San Jose State and Humboldt State were not.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS

The Board's sanction of the four colleges was based upon the recommendations of the special Accreditations Committee, comprised of leading educators of the state, which made an inspection of the local institution last January.

The Board's failure to approve San Jose State College for training secondary school teachers has caused widespread speculation in educational circles. No reasons for its action have been made public.

FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM

The new credential will require five years of study—four years for the A. B. degree and one year of graduate work. This is similar to the program offered at Stanford and the University of California, which heretofore had the exclusive right to grant the credential in northern California. State students desiring to teach in high schools will no longer have to transfer to do their graduate work.

In anticipation of the favorable action of the State Board, the administration and faculty of San Francisco State have worked out curricula with majors in nine fields, all of which have now been sanctioned.

NINE MAJOR FIELDS

The majors are in art, English, combination of English, journalism and speech, social science, music, biological science, physical science, commerce, and physical education.

A general secondary committee has worked out the general educational requirements for the new credential. Students interested in working for the secondary credential may obtain information from the registrar's office.

Otey, Knuth Attend Music Conference

Dr. Wendell Otey and Dr. William Knuth returned to State this week after attending a music educators national conference in Cleveland, Ohio, from March 26 to April 3, for the coordination of music education in the public schools on a nation-wide basis.

There were 40 committees for the conference, and the first three days of the conference were devoted to cooperative study of material relating to music education. There was also a joint session with the Catholic Music Educators Association.

Among the programs presented at the conference were an Ohio day festival, "The Hour of Charm," featuring Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra,

A. O. BARN DANCE SET FOR APRIL 27

Gals in cotton dresses and pinafores, fellows in jeans and ten-gallon hats, will frolic and jig at a barn dance to be sponsored by Alpha Omega in the women's gym on Saturday evening, April 27 from 8:30 to 11:30.

This is the first barn dance to be given by A. O. since the war, and if it is anything like the past dances, its success will be assured.

President Peg O'Haire plans effective decorations, and many big surprises will be awaiting the dancers. Admission will be 75 cents with a student body card and and $1.00 without.

Hollingsworth To Sing In Comic Opera Tonight

Mr. Harold Hollingsworth, assistant professor of music, will sing the comic role in Fioravanti's comic opera "Village Singers" tonight in Galileo auditorium at 8:30. The affair is open to the public, and students will be admitted for 60 cents.

Last Sunday Mr. Hollingsworth sang the tenor role in the oratorio, "Elijah," at the Oakland Auditorium.

Music Fed Revives Hour Concert Tuesday

The first student hour concert this semester will be presented Tuesday, April 16, from 12 to 1 in the First Baptist Church.

Soloists will include pianists Dorothy Metzner and Blanche Philpott, and vocalists Dean Sandhagen and Lucille Ruff.

The concert is sponsored by the Music Federation who presented concerts prior to the war, at regular intervals. This system has been revived and the hour concerts will be given regularly throughout the semester. The general student body is invited to attend.

Vet Housing Rumor Becomes Reality; Buildings Will Be Available By Summer

That housing will soon be available to veterans is no longer a rumor. Seven buildings, each 140 feet long and 28 feet wide, will be moved to the new campus from Richmond as soon as grading and foundation work is completed. Each building contains twelve four-room apartments, some of which will be furnished, and possibly all.

These apartments will be available to both single and married veterans at a minimum cost. They will house 84 veterans and their families. If several veterans share one apartment, more can be accommodated.

At present Dean David J. Cox, who is handling the arrangements, is awaiting final official approval on the details concerning grading, construction and rentals from the local housing authority, the State of California and the Federal Housing Authority.

"We hope to have these buildings ready by the end of the semester, or by summer session and certainly by the beginning of the fall semester," said Dean Cox. The only accommodation for men at the present time is "The Rock," which houses only forty male students, the majority of whom are veterans."

Students Being Duped! Democracy Takes Beating

Students! We are being duped!

Not all undemocratic actions are confined to foreign countries. Not by a long shot. It is happening here in this college, now! !

Recently we have had one Activities Commissioner and a Vice-president of the student body appointed to the Executive Board. We are now on the verge of having another Activities Commissioner appointed because of a new vacancy in that office. Appointed by the members of the Board, mind you.

Competence or Friendship

Would you rather elect a competent person to fill any vacancy? Or would you rather have the Executive Board appoint a person who is a "friend" of the members of the Board?

A nice bit of "skullduggery" has been practiced as of late by the members of the Board.

Let us examine the constitution and by-laws of the Associated Students of San Francisco State College.

Article VIII, Section 11 of our constitution states, "Any vacancy occuring during the term of office of any elective officer shall be filled by a special election called by the President . . . ," and goes on to say what will be done in the case of a vacancy in the office of the president.

Have we had a special election to fill these vacancies? No! Appointments, and nothing else!

Elections or Appointments

A new Activities Commissioner would have been appointed by the Board at their April 4th meeting, but thanks to the efforts of Harry Erlich, Member-at-Large, and Bob Martens, Member-at-Large, a new Commissioner was not appointed. These men, however, suggested "that we wait until we get some more applications for the job before we appoint a new Commissioner"! ! ! ! !

The members of the Executive Board, students and faculty alike, have been and are guilty of gross negligence.

In the coming election May first, let us make certain that members are elected to the Board who are capable of carrying out the duties of their offices in a manner befitting the qualifications of such offices. —E. S.

Campaigns for Student Offices Prove Challenge

With the coming elections to be held on the first of May, many students will be interested not only in who is running, but just who these candidates are—their platforms and their ability to hold an office.

It behooves the Executive Board to call a campaign rally where all students running for an office are presented to the members of the student body. These candidates should give a short talk, in which their qualifications are presented to the voting members of the student body. Thus, by seeing the candidates, hearing them talk, and being made cognizant of their qualifications, the voting members of the student body will be more intelligent in their voting, separating the chaff from the wheat.

Wide Open Campaign

It behooves the Executive Board to let the campaign be wide open, with posters, pins and buttons, spread all over the campus. This not only promotes interest in the election, but adds the color that has been so sadly missing in past campaigns.

It further behooves the Executive Board to require all candidates to file a budget with the Board listing the expenses incurred during the election. The Board should determine the amount to be spent—and this should be reasonable, say ten dollars. Anyone who spends more than the allotted amount should be disqualified automatically. By doing this, the ingenuity of the candidates will blossom forth, and ingenuity is a well-known American trait.

Vote Wisely

Keep in mind that friendship is not always the best qualification of a candidate running for office. If you want your money spent intelligently, if you want your college activities administered intelligently, then it behooves you, the voting members, to demand that the Executive Board do all in its power to make available to you the facilities that will enable you to vote intelligently. —E. Mother Nature Given "Bird" By By Science

By Irv Thomas

Spring has been here for several weeks now, but it seems as though something is still missing. No, I've got thoughts of love; and laziness; and I did see the sun the other day (through courtesy, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.) It's the birds that are letting down their end of the bargain. I miss their chatter when I awake each morning.

I think the progress of aviation is behind it all. It's getting so bad that there isn't a self-respecting bird in the sky anymore. Mother Nature is fostering a generation of winged creatures with inferiority complexes.

Can you blame them, though? Man has stolen every one of their exclusive characteristics—even to bombing—and outdone them in forty short years.

WHAT SPEED!

We'll be able to leave San Francisco after lunch, and arrive at Honolulu an hour before a second lunch. If we take similar hops all the way to Manila—two more lunches worth—we'll end up with one good stomachache. On the other hand, if we leave for New York at noon, we'll only eat one lunch, but dinner will be three hours sooner. Therefore, no matter which approach you take, the price of food is bound to go down, according to demand, and a great many farmers will be out of work.

MORE ASPECTS

Another interesting aspect, assuming that your eating habits become adjusted, is that a person traveling continuously at that rate will catch up with the sun after one and a half times around the globe. In other words, by flying west for eight hours, we can set the calendar back one full day. If you've got the money, you'll be able to hold your age level, legally, by flying four months out of the year. If you think you're already too old, you can shove your age back one notch by taking an eight month flying jaunt.

But wait a minute! Don't buy your tickets yet. Those are just the "ideal" conditions. Actually, the international date line would mess everything up. Instead of lopping off a day for every eight flying

Percy's Travels On Streetcars Prove To Be "Rough" Experience

By Harry Karpilow

Percy has a morbid fear of all street cars.

Last week, after school, he walked to the nearest street car line. Arriving just as the car passed, Percy gave chase. He dodged several automobiles, bumped a small baby and finally caught up with the crowded car. He made a flying leap, and finding no place to hold on, promptly fell flat on his face.

Not to be denied, Percy again pursued the car. This time he managed to achieve a precarious footing on the steps of the car. Puffing and blowing, he looked up. The conductor was glaring at him and yelling, "Fares, please." This produced a mad scramble on the part of our exhausted student. He shoved his books between his legs, held on with his left hand, and tried to get his change out of his left pocket with his right hand.

PERCY KNOCKED ABOUT

Approximately fifteen people were waiting at the next corner. When the car stopped, our hero was carried along in the rush of the incoming passengers. Someone with hobnails stepped on his foot. An elbow came flying out for nowhere causing an internal hemorrhage of his miniature proboscis. Percy, the gentleman, meanwhile was muttering profuse apologies to an elderly lady he had just kneed through a window.

Above the mad hubbub came the conductor's voice. "Move up front, folks. There's lots of room!" A buxom lass in front of Percy suddenly turned, slapped his face with a mighty right hand and screamed, "How dare you?"

PERCY FINALLY SEATED

After riding twenty blocks, Percy finally managed to get a seat. He had no sooner sat down when he was disturbed by someone brushing against his shoulder in a persistent manner. Looking up, he saw a huge, brawny female staring at him with a withering glance that seemed to say, "Where are your manners, you worm?"

Percy slowly rose and said, "Care to ——." Before he could finish, the female was comfortably seated in the vacated seat.

PERCY VS MOTORMAN

Nearing his stop, Percy, hemmed in on both sides by a mass of humanity, wondered how he would ever get to the car door. His problem was suddenly solved as the motorman threw on the brakes. Percy flew through the care and came to a bone-crushing stop upon contact with the motorman. The infuriated motorman, a murderous glare in his eyes, removed Percy's foot from his face, and slowly rose from the floor. Percy timidly smiled and said, "Out, please."

A beautiful sardonic smile crossed the city employee's face. "Certainly, sir," he said.

Thinking what a nice man the street car operator was, Percy stepped through the open door. Slam! The closing doors crashed in upon him. In the fast enveloping darkness, Percy faintly heard he motorman chuckling, "Oh! I'm so-o-o sorry."

Szigetti's Music Awes Audience

Joseph Szigeti returned to the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco last Saturday night after a year's absence. In all fairness we may still say that Mr. Szigeti is one of the most brilliant violinists that has ever graced San Francisco. Playing the violin concerto in an all Beethoven concert, his technique was by no means flawless, but if this was so he certainly compensated for it by his dynamic interpretation as a whole. In our opinion Szigeti captures the integral beauty of Beethoven's music more completely than any of our other virtuosos. His bowing arm is still the finest on the concert stage.

It would be difficult to comment on his tone Saturday night, inasmuch as the program was held in the Civic Auditorium, a place by no means acoustically perfect. However, an audible distortion of the music was discernible.

ORCHESTRA EXCELLENT

The orchestra, in excellent form, opened the concert with Beethoven's Coriolan overture, and concluded with the ninth, the choral, symphony. The San Francisco Municipal Chorus, under the direction of Han Lesche, combined with the orchestra on the symphony.

Charlotte Boerner, soprano; Reba Greenley, contralto; Carl Hague, the tenor, seemed to stand out, inasmuch as the other singers were somewhat loud. At any rate vocal criticism is a bit out of our scope, so a firm opinion is unwarranted.

City Offers Versatile Menu of Entertainment

San Francisco has always offered a versatile menu of entertainment spots to the public. It has also given birth to many famous entertainers, who started as unknowns in this city, finally achieved recognition, and then went on to even greater achievement.

The Bal Tabarin, which is considered one of S. F.'s best night clubs, was the first step on the ladder of success both Kay Kyser and Ginny Simms. Perhaps the Murtah Sisters, a terrific comedy trio now featured there, will some day hit the "Big Time" and remember the days, or should I say nights, at the Bal Tabarin.

Prominent Noel Toy is a product of this city's Chinatown. Forbidden City, Li Pos, and the Club Shanghai are but a few of the interesting spots to be found there.

A unique type of entertainment can be found at Finnochio's and Mona's, with the accent on unique.

In the past year the Club Savoy has presented such names as Billie Holliday, Chi-Chi Murphy, Red Allen, J. C. Higginbotham and others, which made a certain type of music lover very happy.

For those interested in dancing, the St. Francis and Mark Hopkins have been the popular choice. Incidentally, according to a recent rumor, Harry James and orchestra will follow Henry King at the Mark. (Don't quote me.)

LOU RUBIN

"Men of Distinction" Prefer the Pipe

I am by taste a confirmed pipe smoker. Inasmuch as it is one of our cultural idioms to smoke in one form or another, I choose the pipe because, to me, it is the tastiest, most distinctive and most graceful way to shorten my life.

Invariably men of distinction seem to prefer pipes—even the beautiful men who pose for the Calvert whiskey ads, bless their tailors—so my fetish is probably a form of hero worship.

PIPE DREAMS

In bull sessions and arguments, my pipe gives me no little advantage; I can puff meditatively while my opponent expounds, and then in my rebuttal, stab the air dramatically with the stem of my pipe. Indeed, it seems to have a hypnotic ability when I emphasize a point by poking it straight into a person's face, or draw eloquent figures in the sky while my tongue paints a picture. I have relied on my pipe to such an extent, that I seem undressed in an argument without it.

I love to sit in a corner and puff furiously while great billows of smoke clouds precipitate to the ceiling. Before the Co-op booths were removed, people would pop around the corner armed with various liquids, heroically ready to extinguish a flame, and find me thoughtfully sitting there completely masked by dense screens of smoke. Upon being questioned I would nocommittally remove the pipe from my mouth and ask what the hell they wanted.

STUFF N' SNUFF

Unfortunately, every pipe I have ever owned has been damaged in such a fashion that the damn things go out every forty seconds. Consequently, in sitting down for an evening's pipe enjoyment, I usually purchase a large five-cent box of matches, and am quite content. Frankly, half of my smoke is Maine sugar pine, and half is Sutliff's special mixture.

But, if I must smoke, I shall always be a pipe smoker, because I think I'm rather beautiful with a briar special clenched between my teeth.

Front Row Phobia Grips Most Staters

What evil enchantment grips the first row seats in college classrooms? It is a basic fact that no student has ever been known to sit in the front row voluntarily. Whatever the reason, students avoid the first row as if they feared the ceiling might some day collapse on them.

We were privileged to witness a striking display of this front row phobia the other day. A student came lurching into class several minutes late. His eyes roamed around the room hunting an empty seat, but all the places were filled . . . except those in the fatal first row. He shuddered and looked frantically for a vacant chair elsewhere, but there were none. A hollow groan escaped his lips, and he tottered toward the rear with the obvious intention of standing in back for the remainder of the period. The instructor had a different idea, however.

"Mr. Quidnunc," he thundered, "Mr. Quidnunc, there are several vacant seats in the first row, Please be seated!"

At this the unfortunate scholar screamed in horror and, sobbing brokenly, rushed from the room.

Can anyone discover a solution to the weird problem of the vacant row? Should we eliminate the first row entirely and start all classrooms with the second row? Should we abolish chairs and have the students stand during the lectures? Possibly we should ignore the first row entirely and hope it will become enraged by this cavalier treatment and go far, far away.

HOMESICK

By Florence Stefanelli

The morning sun peeping through the clouds,
The warm restful feeling of my bed,
The room warm and the air outside brisk and cool,
Tingling with freshness.
The chattering of the busy birds
outside the window,
The wholesome odor of eggs frying
in the pan,
My mother's mellow voice as she sings while doing her morning chores—
This is where I belong. This is where I want to be.

Not in this hot dry desert with the burning sun
Beating down on me.
I want the fresh brisk air—
That's where I want to be.

A Letter To The Editor

RETORT TO VETS

This is an open letter to all veterans who use the term "bobby-soxers" in open derision of the women students at State. Of course, the appelation fits in its descriptive application, but it is impossible not to know and resent the inference behind it. The general drift of the conversation accompanying the expression usually comments upon the youth and lack of experience of most college girls. Occasionally it is said that we act more like "crazy high school kids," without a thought other than clothes and men.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

Perhaps all this comment is just idle chatter, but on the other hand, you fellows cannot expect us to take remarks of this sort without fighting back. Most of the targets of all the word-flaying are lower classmen, many of us straight out of high school. Sure, maybe we do dress like high school kids—do you expect us to drag out the nylons every day for your benefit? What if some of the girls do wear slacks or pedal-pushers to school—at least they are neat and well-groomed! Have you ever noticed the fellows who come to class day after day without shaving? And as far as being young, you might take into consideration the fact that our chronological age doesn't necessarily indicate a lack of mental ability.

HELP, DON'T PATRONIZE

The very fact that you are going to college is an admission that you realize your need for more knowledge. None of us will deny that your experiences in the service have matured you beyond your years. Instead of patronizing us, why don't you help us to understand your ideas and the reasons for them? We're all here for the same purpose—to learn. Remember that most college women are fairly intelligent, and willing to learn from fellow students as well as instructors. All we ask is that you give us a chance to prove that, despite our extreme youth, we have brains and ability. How about it?—Dorothy Quinn

TOMORROW

Cinder Squad Meets Chico

State track coach Ray Kaufman and a 25 man squad leave today for Chico, where they will meet the Wildcat spikesters tomorrow for the first time since 1942. A close meet is anticipated as both squads are evenly matched.

The Gators will be counting upon Hal Fox to take both sprints, as usual. In the weight events, Bill Wilson is the man to watch, with John Chinn a close second.

MEET SFJC

Next Wednesday the Lake Merced campus will be the scene of a dual meet between State and SFJC when the two rivals meet. In two triangular meets earlier this season, State nosed out the Rams the first time, while the Jaycees came out on top by seven points in the second encounter.

It all adds up to a very close meet, which would appear to be a toss-up. The Gators hold an edge in the running events, while the Rams are likely to chalk up most of the points in the hurdles, jumps and pole vault.

Intramurals

First round of the tennis tournament was completed last Friday, and the second round of eight matches is well under way. Second round winners advancing into the quarter finals are Dick Oxtot, James Calbert, Bob Seiler and Marc Gelles.

Volley ball will start next week during the noon hour in the Rally Bowl and the Women's Gym. Monday is the last day to hand in sign-up cards, which may be obtained from any P. E. instructor.

Tumblers Win Crown

The Tumblers took the intramural softball championship by beating the Mudders 1 to 0 last Friday, behind the one-hit pitching of Stan Johnson. Chuck Damonte doubled in the third inning to spoil Johnson's chances for a no-hitter.

Leon Del Grande, Mudders' pitcher, hit Johnson to open the third inning. Johnson advanced to second on Salvadore Salina's infield out, and scored on Herb Bill's timely single to left-center.

Boyle Enthusiastic

Post-War Pigskin Served With 'T'; Spring Practice To Start May 1

State's post-war pigskin will be served with "T," and plenty of punch besides, coach Dick Boyle enthusiastically announced this week. Coach Dick, who was released from the Navy last fall, will be back at the helm of the Gator grid machine for the first time since 1941.

Plans have been made to issue equipment to all candidates between April 24 and 27, and daily practice will be held at the new campus field starting May 1.

Boyle is going to install the famed "T" formation for the first time in Gatorville. He will use it exclusively during spring practice in an effort to give the players every opportunity to learn the tricky ball handling technique, and display their ability. Both the Shaughnessy "T" with man-in-motion, and Don Farout's Missouri version, will be utilized.

ALSO USE BOX

During the season next fall, however, plays will also be run from the Notre Dame box. With the team lining up in a "T" before the start of the play, it will be possible to run a play from that formation, or shift into a box, left or right.

How much the "T" is used will depend upon how well the team personnel can be adapted to it, and upon the ball-handling ability of the quarterbacks.

Boyle has been lining up a schedule which will include Chico State, Humboldt State, Cal Aggies, Placer JC and Marin JC in San Francisco, and Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. A game in southern California may also be arranged.

FOURTEEN VETS

In addition to 14 veterans from last season's team, Boyle is looking forward to a large turn-out of freshmen who have had experience with service teams.

Regulars from last year's squad expected to be on hand for practice include George Albrecht, Bill Kennerley, Jack Byrne and Ed Murray, ends; Len Canavan and Russ Armstrong, tackles; John Scharetg, Dick Wind and Jess Juarez, guards; Stew Saunders and Dick Bunker, quarterbacks, and Ralph Azavedo, Walt "Super" Suggs and Bob Seiler, halfbacks.

Stater Sport Slants

By Paul Hungerford

Loosen up your vocal chords, kids, for good news is rounding the Haight St. corner of Buchanan Heights as the Spring training for next fall's grid team gets under way on May first.

Coach Dick Boyle forsees great football teams in the next few years if these freshmen "pan-out" as he expects them to. Many of the vets now enrolled have had a great deal of experience playing on many of last year's service teams.

Attention, San Jose

Open letter to the coaching staff of San Jose State . . . We of San Francisco State College may not receive as much publicity as you do, nor boast quite so loudly, but when we plan our sports season we do not plan two games on the same date in the same sport! Therefore we would appreciate your planning the next Spartan baseball season in advance. When games are called off at the last minute it is impossible to plan another game with another team!

Flash! For the first time in 28 games the Jaycee Rams defeated the mighty Gator nine . . . but I will admit it was odd that the umpire was the father of the JC pitcher. All kidding aside, he did a good job of it.

Modest Athletes

Have you ever seen a modest athlete? Modest athletes are about as scarce as hen's teeth in a turkey's mouth . . . but we of State can proudly boast the presence of two of the same! "Ten Flat" Fox and li'l Carter Toler, are Gatorville's blushing heroes. When you talk about their wins they get all puckered up inside and begin to blubber and spout . . . but if it wasn't for Hal Fox, Bill Wilson, Carter Toler and Joe Upshaw, State would be on the rocks as far as track is concerned. These boys are really ready and rarin' to go up to Chico, and if it's in their power they'll whip them, (we hope.)

Boyle After Adkins

Amos Adkins, the "Singing Saint," reecntly out for track here at the Gator campus, is really doing a bit of all right in the high jump. Amos, formerly of the St. Mary's wonder team, played in the Sugar Bowl and almost all other games that the Gaels participated in. Don't tell a soul, but I think chief mentor Boyle, coach of the coming Gator eleven, has got his welcome mat hanging out for our boy Amos . . . but do you blame him?

Dunn Hurls Gators To Win Over Aggies

DAVIS, April 4 — Red Dunn hurled the State nine to an easy 11 to 3 victory over the California Aggies in the first meeting between the schools in four years.

Chuck Damonte led the ten-hit batting attack with three singles, while Bob Jones and Armand Quartini each contributed a two-bagger.

Scoring all their runs in the first four innings, the Gators drove Aggie pitchers Anderson and Foote to the showers early in the game. O'Connor came in and blanked State the last five innings.

Needs Batting Punch

Gator Nine Plays Pacific Tomorrow; Meets SFJC Rams Again Wednesday

The San Francisco State nine travels to Stockton tomorrow to meet College of Pacific in the second of a two game series. The Tigers won the first game played in Daly City, 2 to 0.

Starting on the mound for the Gators will be Red Dunn, who lost a 2 to 1 heartbreaker to SFJC Tuesday. Hal Bronson, a southpaw, is expected to start on the mound for COP.

RAMS WEDNESDAY

Wednesday the Gators cross bats with SFJC at Big Rec at 3:30 p. m. State took the first encounter from their cross-town rivals this season, 9 to 4, for their 27th straight win over the Rams, but the Jaycees shattered the 14-year old winning streak in the 28th attempt.

Gator coach Hal Harden has selected Irv Edstrom as his pitching choice, while SFJC will counter with Bud Babbit or George Koche, who prepped at Commerce Hi.

NEED HITTING

Although the Gator nine's won and lost percentage stands at an even .500, the box scores show that they have not lost any games by more than two runs, that being the previously mentioned 2 to 0 blanking by COP. Their other defeats have been by scores of 2 to 1, 3 to 2 and 9 to 8.

Composite batting averages, which show the club to be hitting a dismal .230, would indicate that a few more hits with men on base would put the Gators on top.

MASSEY MAY HURL

Pitcher Jim Massey, who has been out since the first week of the season with a hand injury, has been working out with the squad for the past two weeks, and may ascend the mound soon. Bill Kennerley, outfielder, had the splint removed from a broken thumb this week, but is unable to throw again as yet.

Netmen Take Pair; Meet Spartans Here

San Francisco State netmen entertain San Jose State on the Gator courts at 1:30 this afternoon, seeking their third straight victory, following two wins last week-end.

Brilliant playing by State's top three men, Joe Woolfson, Morris Sockalov and Vern Whitney, led the Gators to a 5 to 4 triumph over USF last Friday. Art Barker, number six man, also took his match, and Woolfson and Sockalov teamed up to take the first doubles match.

The meet with Marin JC was a slaughter of the innocents, with State piling up four love sets and five 6-1 sets out of the nineteen played. Barker scored a 6-0, 6-0 victory, while Whitney lost only one game and Woolfson two.

Woolfson maintained his undefeated record in collegiate competition by taking USF's Fred Von Soosten 6-3, 6-2, and handcuffing Marin's Ken Ricksacker, 6-1, 6-1.

Complete results:

State-USF: Woolfson (S) d. Van Soosten (USF) 6-3, 6-2; Sockalov (S) d. Freethy (USF) 6-4, 6-4; Whitney (S), d. Tarsan (USF) 9-7, 6-4; Brown (USF) d. Murray (S) 6-3, 8-6; Chapralis (USF) d. The State Riding Club will again go horseback riding this afternoon at the S. F. Riding Academy at 3:30 p. m.

US Receiving Ship Whips Noe Valley

The Gator-manned Noe Valley nine dropped its first game to the strong US Receiving Ship, 12 to 3 at Yerba Buena Island Sunday. Bill Kibbec led the Navy's batting attack with three singles, while Kieper, Kennerley, Millikan and and Edstrom collected two blows each for the losers.

Although both teams garnered ten hits, the Receiving Ship took advantage of errors and breaks on bad hops to overcome a three run lead inthe sixth, while Noe Valley left 15 runners stranded on the bases.

Noe Valley meets the Dr. Orwitz-sponsored club this Sunday at 6th and Bryant Sts. at 2 p. m.

AT LAST

SFJC Snaps Gator Streak

SFJC finally did it. After 27 futile attempts, dating back to 1933 when their rivalry first began, the Ram nine edged out San Francisco State for the first time in a 2 to 1 pitchers' battle at Ocean View Tuesday.

Red Dunn hurled great ball for the Gators, holding the Rams to five hits, but his mates collected only one run and six hits from the combined offerings of Charley Babbit and Bill Collins, (Bill's father, incidentally, was the umpire).

Both of the Jaycee runs, which were unearned, came in the second inning. Bob McIntyre singled, and George Homsey got life on Dunn's error. Roger Ranuio drove in McIntyre with a single to center, and Homsey scored while Ranuio was being run down on a cut-off play.

Chuck Damonte singled in the fourth to drive in Joe Nicolini, who was safe on Jimmy McNamara's boot, for the Gators' lone tally.

W. A. A.

By Lola Burton

Something new is being tried by Gloria Gamba, manager of the softball tournament, to encourage people with little experience to come out for the sport. On Thursdays and Fridays at noon, softball will be open to those women who desire to learn how to play the game, and they will be coached by more experienced players.

No more than three P. E. majors will be allowed to participate on each team in the tournament of this beginning group, because this group has been organized for the express purpose of interesting those women who have heretofore been hesitant about coming out for the sport because of the skilled competition.

On Mondays and Tuesdays at noon the more advanced players are putting in some strenuous practice prior to the tournament.

CLUBS TO SIGN UP

The W. A. A. would like to see teams from the various clubs and sororities on the campus sign up to play in the tournaments of either the beginning or the more advanced group. There will be about two weeks of practice playing before the tournament begins, and women must participate in the practice in order to take part in the tournament.

Alpha Omega, women's service club, has already signed up for the softball excitement ,and there are several other clubs with enough members to make up a good team. Bib 'n' Tucker, Student Advisory Council, International Relations Club, Phi Lambda Chi, and many other organizations should be represented by their women at these games. A team will consist of seven players and two substitutes.

Every opportunity is being given the women to come out and enjoy this popular sport. Let's hope that everyone takes advantage of the opportunity.

Phi Epsilon Pledges Seven: Plans Dance

The election of seven physical education majors and minors to pledgeship in Phi Epsilon Mu, men's P. E. honorary fraternity, has been announced by Dick Webster, president. Four of the pledges were introduced to the membership at last Tuesday evening's meeting; they are Hal Fox, Louis Vasquez, Art Scott and Ivor Calloway. Other pledges include Jack Byrne, John Shepard and Laurence Keller.

Plans for "Sportsnite," to be held May 17 in the gym, were discussed at the Tuesday meeting. Featured events will be the all-intramural volley ball team pitted against another bay area team, boxing championships, tumbling and apparatus acts. These sports events will be followed by a dance.

President Webster has called a meeting of all P. E. majors and minors for noon today in Room 210, Anderson Hall. Featured speaker will be Dean David J. Cox, whose subject will be "The Value of Belonging to a Professional Organization." Webster will speak briefly on the purpose of Phi Epsilon Mu.

Faculty Lunch Room Under Construction

The construction of a new faculty dining room, adjoining the Activities Room and kitchen, is now under way in an attempt to provide more space in the student Co-op.

A steam table is being built, and will be installed in the kitchen of the Activities room so that hot plates will be available to both the college staff and student lunch groups. The steam table will be installed by the Associated Students, since it will be used for organization luncheons and activities. "I am sure that groups will get more use out of the Activities room for lunch and supper meetings," stated Miss Gertrude Luehning, Co-op manager.

The major will provide training for insurance and real estate salesmen, economics analysts, statisticians and accountants.

Among the courses to be offered next term are: Economics 1A-B (elementary economics), Economics 60A (elementary accounting), Economics 35 (consumer economics), Economics 134 (corporation finance and investment), Economics 190 (international trade), Commerce 17 (business law), Commerce 120 (business organization and administration), Commerce 137 (public finance), Commerce 153 (personnel administration), Commerce 183 (marketing). Leonard Speaks At Minnesota

President J. Paul Leonard will leave San Francisco today for Minneapolis, where he will deliver three addresses before the Minnesota State School Administrators and Supervisors next week on the University of Minnesota campus.

Dr. Leonard is one of several distinguished educators invited by Minnesota school officials to speak at the annual Schoolmasters Week conferences at the state university. The conferences deal with various problems confronting the public schools at the present time.

His first address, next Tuesday, will be on "The Ideals of Universal Education." Wednesday he will speak on "A Curriculum for All American Youth." His final talk, on Thursday, will be on "The Administration of Guidance and Supervisory Service in the Secondary Schools."

Arriving at Minneapolis a day early, Dr. Leonard will spend the day Monday interviewing candidates for teaching positions at San Francisco State.
